

Regenerative City Living Lab

This map is the area of our Regenerative City Living Lab. It includes VU Footscray Campus and the area surrounding it. We are interested in learning about your relationship with the area what it means to you and your dreams for what it could be like in the future as a regenerative, circular precinct where there is a sense of community and people feel they belong.

Instructions: Part 1

Think about your relationship with the area in the map including VU Footscray campus. Please use the sticky notes to share your thoughts. This could take the form of:

- A quote
- A note
- A story
- A reflection
- A memory that stands out

Use the questions below to jumpstart your thinking about what these spaces mean to you. Please share your thoughts on a Post It

Where do you like to go?

What do you see, hear, feel, smell, taste in these areas?

Where would you avoid going? Why?

Things being done well for our planet?

Where do you feel you don't belong?

Where do you feel you belong?

Where are we letting our planet down?

Regenerative City Living Lab

Instructions: Part 2 - The Future

Imagine the area in this map in 5 years time that you've been able to create an ideal regenerative space that fosters community, belonging and looking after our planet.

What would you create?

Where would you green parts of the map?

What would it look like?

How would you foster a sense of community?

Where and how could you create a sense of belonging?

What things could you take from today?

What things would you change?

How would you see things you are covering as part of the current project being embedded in this map?

Your notes could be:

- A quote
- A note
- A story
- A reflection

Use sticky notes to tell us what this ideal regenerative space would look like and how you'd achieve it:

Team A

Regenerative City Living Lab
Creating a Regenerative, circular precinct around VU Campus

Part 1 Instructions

Regenerative City Living Lab

The map to your right is the area of our Regenerative City Living Lab. It includes VU Footscray Campus and the area surrounding it. We are interested in hearing about your relationship with the area what it means to you and your dreams for what it could be like in the future as a regenerative, circular precinct where there is a sense of community and people feel they belong.

Instructions: Part 1

Think about your relationship with the area in the map including VU Footscray campus. Please use the icons and sticky notes to share your thoughts. This could take the form of:

- A path
- A site
- A story
- A relationship
- A memory that stands out

Use the questions below to jumpstart your thinking about what these spaces mean to you. For each question, drag a point from that section onto the map and tell us about that experience or observation. (You can also drag points to the "General" section at the bottom of the map)

Where do you like to go? Where would you avoid going? Why?
Where do you feel you belong? Where do you feel you don't belong?
Things being done well for our planet? Where are we letting our planet down?

Follow your instincts, by choosing these icons on the map:

Where do you like to go? Where do you feel you belong? Things being done well for our planet?
Where would you avoid going? Where do you feel you don't belong? Where are we letting our planet down?

Think about your observations. What do you see, hear, smell, taste, and touch in these locations? Draw these words onto the map to make your observations.

Our goal is a fully annotated map

Your relationship and observations

What does this area mean to me? Today

*Maribyrnong is the anglicised version of Mirring-gnay-bir-nong, which means "I can hear a ringtail possum"

General thoughts and observations anywhere

- There are lots of empty and barren places around the VU campus that need some life put into them.
- If general urban and residential areas could be built in the same way as the VU campus, it would be better.

Part 2

Regenerative City Living Lab

Instructions: Part 2 - The Future 🧠

Imagine the area in this map in 5 years time that you've been able to create an ideal regenerative space that fosters community, belonging and looking after our planet.

What would you create?
 Where would you green parts of the map?
 What would it look like?
 How would you foster a sense of community?
 Where and how could you create a sense of belonging?
 What things could you take from today?
 What things would you change?
 How would you see things you are covering as part of the current project being embedded in this map?

Your notes could be:

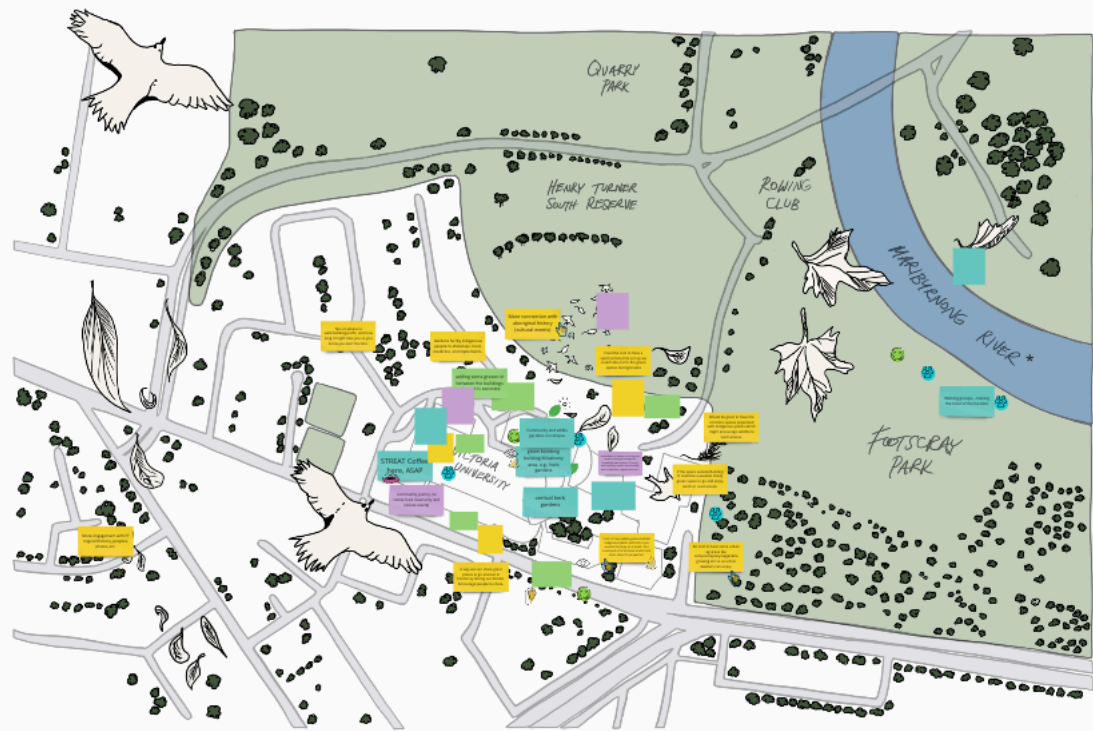

- A quote
- A note
- A story
- A reflection

Use these points to tell us what this ideal regenerative space would look like and how you'd achieve it.

Then, use these icons to visually mark your regenerative notes:

Enlist your senses again. What do you see, feel, hear, taste, smell in these locations after greening them? Drag these icons onto the map to mark the new experiences:

What does this area mean to me? The future

THE FUTURE

Ideas relevant to anywhere (e.g. greening your street, seed library)

- A green street with trees and benches
- A community garden with raised beds and compost bins
- A water feature with a fountain and a small waterfall
- A playground with a sandpit and a treehouse
- A green street with trees and benches
- A community garden with raised beds and compost bins
- A water feature with a fountain and a small waterfall
- A playground with a sandpit and a treehouse

*Maribyrnong is the anglicised version of Mirring-gnay-bir-nong, which means "I can hear a ringtail possum"

Regenerative City Living Lab

Instructions: Part 2 - The Future

Imagine the area in this map in 5 years time that you've been able to create an ideal regenerative space that fosters community, belonging and looking after our planet.

- What would you create?
- Where would you green parts of the map?
- What would it look like?
- How would you foster a sense of community?
- Where and how could you create a sense of belonging?
- What things could you take from today?
- What things would you change?
- How would you see things you are covering as part of the current project being embedded in this map?

Your notes could be:

- A quote
- A note
- A story
- A reflection

Use these posts to tell us what this ideal regenerative space would look like and how you'd achieve it:

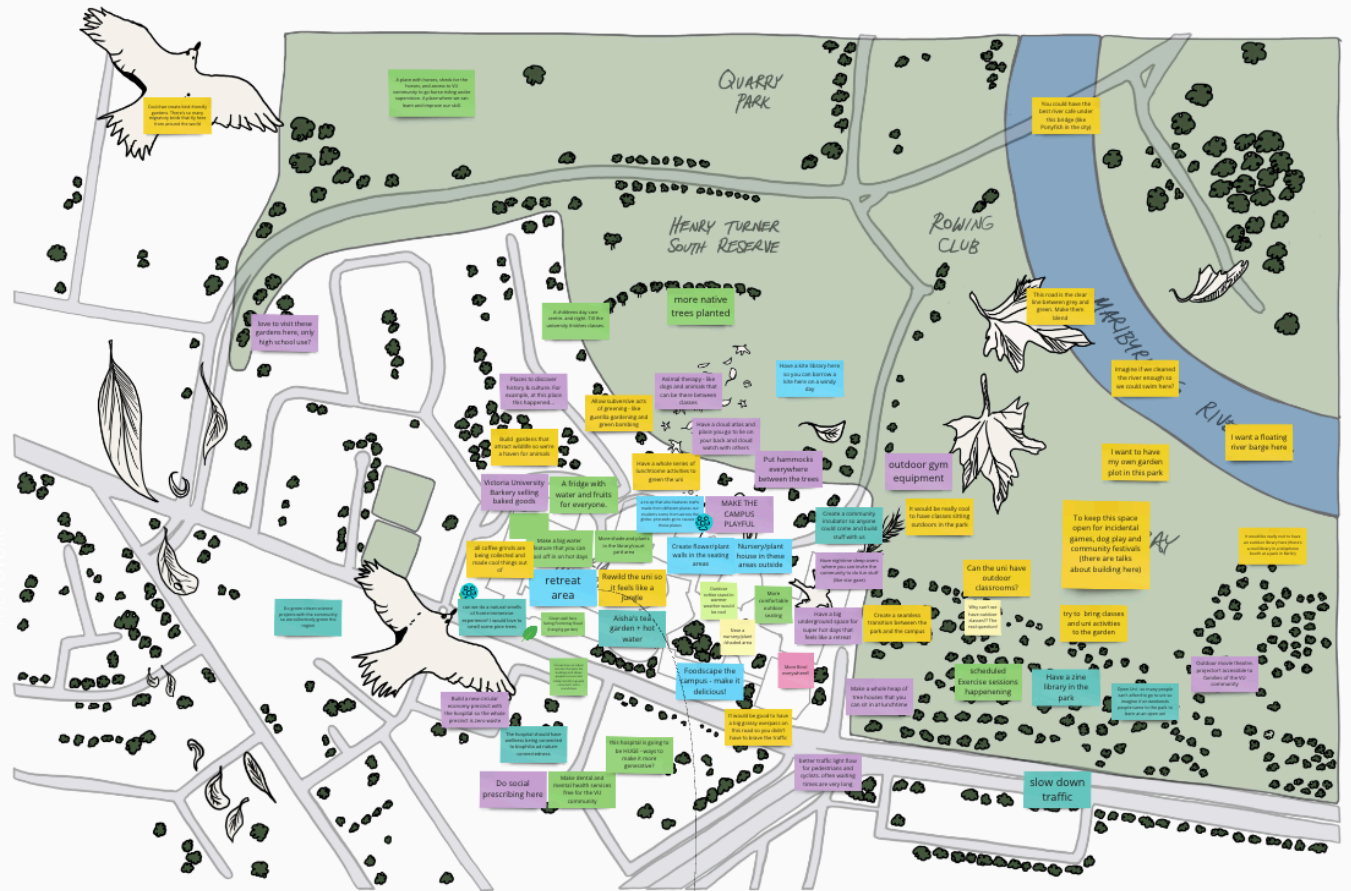

Then, use these icons to visually mark your regenerative notes:

Enlist your senses again. What do you see, feel, hear, taste, smell in these locations after greening them? Drag these icons onto the map to mark the new experiences:

What does this area mean to me? The future

*Maribyrnong is the anglicised version of Murring-gnay-bir-nong, which means "I can hear a ringtail possum"

Ideas relevant to anywhere (e.g. greening your street, seed library)

 seed library green the garden with seeds for green.

Team B

Regenerative City Living Lab
Creating a Regenerative, circular precinct around VU Campus

Part 1 Instructions

Regenerative City Living Lab

The map to your right is the area of our Regenerative City Living Lab. It includes VU Footscray Campus and the area surrounding it. We are interested in learning about your relationship with the area what it means to you and your dreams for what it could be like in the future as a regenerative, circular precinct where there is a sense of community and people feel they belong.

Instructions: Part 1

Think about your relationship with the area in the map including VU Footscray campus. Please use the icons and sticky notes to share your thoughts. This could take the form of:

- A quote
- A note
- A story
- A reflection
- A memory that stands out

Use the questions below to jumpstart your thinking about what these spaces mean to you. For each question, drag a point from that section onto the map and tell us about that experience or association (you can also drag points to the "General" section at the bottom of the map).

Where do you like to go? Where would you avoid going? Why?
 Where do you feel you belong? Where do you feel you don't belong?
 Things being done well for our planet? Where are we letting our planet down?

Follow up your points by dragging these icons onto the map.

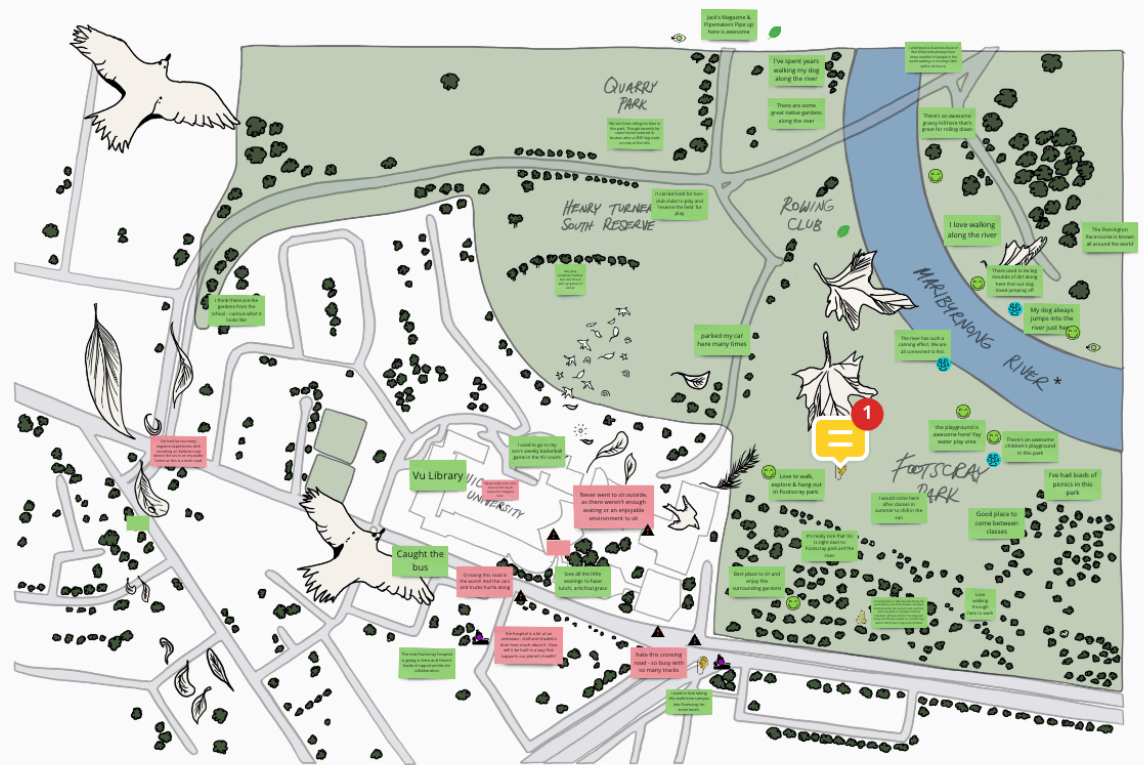

Where do you like to go? 	Where do you feel you belong? 	Things being done well for our planet?
Where would you avoid going? 	Where do you feel you don't belong? 	Where are we letting our planet down?

Next, enlist your five senses. What do you see, feel, hear, taste, smell in these locations? Drag these icons onto the map to mark your observations:

Our goal is a fully annotated map

What does this area mean to me? Today.

Your relationship and observations

*Maribyrnong is the anglicised version of Mirring-gnay-bir-nong, which means "I can hear a ringtail possum"

General thoughts and observations anywhere